2) Entry Verification:

Patrick Hagan is responsible for downloading and performing QA/QC checks on our meteorological information which is sampled every 5 seconds by each instrument on the station and stored in a Campbell Scientific CR10X datalogger. The data is output in 3 arrays: array 15 stores 15min average, max, and minimum values; array 60 stores hourly average, max, and minimum values; and array 144 stores daily average, max, and minimum values. The CDMO datalogger program (NERR_4.CSI) is loaded into the CR10X and controls the sensors. This system interfaces with the Campbell Scientific PC208W software.

Data is uploaded to a PC on a weekly basis and saved on a raw data file that is backed up on a separate drive as well as the CDMO ftp site. Raw comma delimited files (.dat) produced by PC208 are pre processed in Excel with a CDMO developed EQWin macro which is used to properly format the files with header columns, station codes, date, (mm, dd, yyyy), as well as format the data to the correct number of decimal places. The pre-processed file is then copied into the EQWin weather.eqi file where the data are QA/QC checked and archived in a database. EQWin queries, reports, and graphs are used to discover data set outliers (values falling outside the measurement capabilities of the instruments) and large changes in data. EQWin generates statistics, graphs, custom queries, and reports as well as cross referencing with water data. Finally the data is sent to the CDMO. Anomalous data is noted in the anomalous/suspect data section below. Any corrections that were performed and noted in the deleted data section below.

The most common errors/anomalies for 2005 were negative PAR readings that for the most part were kept as they were within the range of the sensors accuracy and since they were all recorded at night obviously represent a value of zero. We also had some issues with a faulty relative humidity sensor for most of the month of April. Finally the hourly and daily averages, maximums, and minimums for any time the system or a particular sensor was powered down was removed due to loss of 5-second data related to those events.

3) Research objectives:

The principal objectives are to record meteorological information for the Sapelo Island NERR's site that can be used 1) as a reference for meteorological data for research projects on the reserve, 2) to give meteorological context for our half hourly SWMP water quality data, and other long term environmental monitoring projects at the Reserve, 3) to observe and characterize important events such as storms, heat and cold waves, droughts, and heavy rainfalls, and 4) to detect trends and characterize climate variability over the long-term

4) Research methods:

The Campbell Scientific weather station samples every 5 seconds continuously throughout the year. These data are used by the CR10X 15 minute averages, maximums, and minimums (array 15), hourly averages, maximums, and minimums (array 60), and daily averages, maximums, and minimums (array 144) of air temperature, relative humidity, barometric pressure, rainfall, wind speed, wind direction, and solar radiation. In 2005 data was downloaded on a weekly basis and promptly checked over.

Sensors on the weather station are inspected monthly for damage or debris. The rain gauge tends to collect debris and is checked more regularly, particularly before and after major rain events. Sensors are removed for calibration annually or biannually depending on the sensor. Also, data downloaded on site is checked against a Kestrel 4000 and an offshore NOAA buoy station to assure accurate readings.

5) Site location and character:

The site is located at N 31deg 25.068', W 081deg 17.721', about 15 feet above sea level. All sensors are mounted on a 10m-aluminum tower located in the northern corner of the Marsh Landing parking lot on the southwest corner of the island. It is bordered with salt marsh to the north and south with transition into pine forest occurring 1/2 mi to the east. On the immediate west lies the Duplin River and the ferry dock which is also the location of our lower Duplin and Marsh Landing Water Quality sampling sites. The station is well exposed to all winds and weather with practically no blockage.

This region is subject to multiple severe weather phenomena partially due to the proximity to the ocean. These phenomena include severe summer thunderstorms, which can cause drastic, localized drops in pressure, temperature, and heavy rains; powerful fall and winter frontal systems carrying prolonged strong winds (usually NNE), drastic and sudden drops in temperature and pressure, and long, steady rains; and of course the late summer and early fall hurricanes. It must be noted that due to the remote location and proximity to the ocean our weather patterns can vary greatly from those on the mainland, particularly temperatures which tend to moderate due to our being surrounded by water. The nearest sites for comparison is the Grays Reef NOAA weather Buoy located about 20nm east of Sapelo Island and Glynnco airport located approx. 30 mi to the SSE.

6) Data Collection Period:

The data collection period for 2005 ran from Jan 1, 2005 @00:15 to Dec 31, 2005 @ 24:00.

8) Associated research

Sapelo Island has a long history of maintaining research. In 1953, the University of Georgia Marine Institute (UGAMI) was formed and the island became a working laboratory for many. The research continues today with SAP NERR and UGAMI creating a unique partnership with much of the current research being done facilitated by SAP NERR and UGAMI together. Given UGAMI's long history on Sapelo, a bibliographic list of over 800 articles of current and previous research can be found on the UGAMI website: <http://www.uga.edu/ugami> and on the Sapelo Island NERR site: <http://www.sapelonerr.org>.

11) Anomalous/suspect/missing data

Arrays:

During 2022 all pre-2007 weather data were revisited by the CDMO. Historically those datasets included 15 minute, hourly (60), and daily data arrays (144). As directed by the NERRS Data Management Committee, the CDMO removed the hourly and daily data arrays leaving only the 15 minute data to make the entire NERRS SWMP weather dataset consistent in its reporting. All references to the 60 and 144 arrays were left in the metadata document as they may still provide valuable information, but users should be aware that they are largely no longer relevant. The updated datasets were uploaded to the database and made available through the various data applications at www.nerrsdata.org/get/landing.cfm throughout the fall of 2022.

This data while being slightly out of range has been considered acceptable and was retained in the dataset. The following statements explain the various anomalies that may occur in greater detail.

- 1) 15 min sample rainfall amount differences of over 5mm in 15 min can occur during storms and indicates intense ppt bursts during thunderstorms or frontal passages.
- 2) Relative humidity differences greater than 25% on 15min are not unusual with frontal passages and wind shifts.
- 3) Air temp differences between 15 min samples greater than 3 deg are not unusual with frontal passages, thunderstorms, and wind shifts.
- 4) Relative humidity values slightly above 100% are usually within the range of the sensor and can be generally accepted as near 100% conditions
- 5) Intense extra-tropical cyclones and hurricanes that often affect the regional barometric pressure to values below 980mb are not uncommon, especially in late summer, fall, and spring months.

Total Precipitation Outliers

These are rain events that showed more than 5mm in a 15-minute interval. All samples were kept as summer and tropical storms may produce these results plus it is possible for the bucket to become clogged (bird droppings) only to unclog itself during a rain event and as a result drop a large amount of water at once. This still represents rain that fell.

Arrays:

During 2022 all pre-2007 weather data were revisited by the CDMO. Historically those datasets included 15 minute, hourly (60), and daily data arrays (144). As directed by the NERRS Data Management Committee, the CDMO removed the hourly and daily data arrays leaving only the 15 minute data to make the entire NERRS SWMP weather dataset consistent in its reporting. All references to the 60 and 144 arrays were left in the metadata document as they may still provide valuable information, but users should be aware that they are largely no longer relevant. The updated datasets were uploaded to the database and made available through the various data applications at www.nerrsdata.org/get/landing.cfm throughout the fall of 2022.

The datalogger program was modified and reloaded on 2/9/05 @9:30 to change the midnight timestamp to 2400 so the hourly data at 2/9/05 @10:00 and the daily totals at 2/9/05 @24:00 were deleted. However It turned out the program change did not succeed in changing the midnight timestamps so at the end of the year an Excel macro was run on the data to correct the timestamps to 24:00.

Recalibrated relative humidity, temp, barometer, and wind instruments were installed on 4/6/05 from 12:15-13:30 so the following hourly data at 4/6/05 @14:00 and the daily totals at 4/6/05 @24:00 were deleted.

The relative humidity/temperature sensor that was replaced with a freshly calibrated unit on 4/6 ended up having problems with the relative humidity sensor right off. We were forced to leave it in place as the other unit had been shipped off for recalibration. The readings varied but were on average pretty high so all the RH data produced by that sensor was deleted.

A new relative humidity/temp probe was deployed on 4/28 from 11:20 –12:00 so the hourly data at 4/28/05 @ 12:00 and the daily totals at 4/28/05 @24:00 were removed.

13) Missing data

Arrays:

During 2022 all pre-2007 weather data were revisited by the CDMO. Historically those datasets included 15 minute, hourly (60), and daily data arrays (144). As directed by the NERRS Data Management Committee, the CDMO removed the hourly and daily data arrays leaving only the 15 minute data to make the entire NERRS SWMP weather dataset consistent in its reporting. All references to the 60 and 144 arrays were left in the metadata document as they may still provide valuable information, but users should be aware that they are largely no longer relevant. The updated datasets were uploaded to the database and made available through the various data applications at www.nerrsdata.org/get/landing.cfm throughout the fall of 2022.

Data are missing due to equipment or associated specific probes not being deployed, equipment failure, time of maintenance or calibration, or repair/replacement of equipment. For more details see section 12. If additional information relating to missing data is needed contact the research coordinator at the reserve from which the data came.

14) Other remarks:

On 10/17/2023 this dataset was updated to include embedded QAQC flags for anomalous/suspect data. System-wide monitoring data beginning in 2007 were processed to allow for QAQC flags and codes to be embedded in the data files rather than detailed in the metadata alone (as in the anomalous/suspect, deleted, and missing data sections above). Prior to 2007, rejected data were deleted from the dataset so they are unavailable to be used at all, but suspect data were only noted in the metadata document. Suspect data flags <1> were embedded retroactively in order to allow suspect data to be easily identified and filtered from the dataset if desired for analysis and reporting purposes. No other flags or codes were embedded in the dataset and users should still refer to the detailed explanations above for more information.

Precipitation:

During the initial years of NERRS SWMP weather data collection the CR10X programming was inconsistent in how precipitation values were recorded. For most reserves, zeros were not recorded when rainfall had not occurred between 2001-2003, instead no rainfall was represented by a blank cell. The CDMO verified which datasets were impacted by this issue for the 2001-2006 datasets and inserted zeros when the metadata indicated that no precipitation occurred and data were not missing for other reasons. In some cases, zero values for precipitation data were evaluated and removed where the metadata confirmed that no rainfall should have been in the dataset. The pre-2007 data did not go through a thorough QAQC process again at that time (in addition to previous QAQC); however, if discrepancies were noticed between what was documented in the metadata and what was in the dataset, additional updates may have been made. The updated datasets were uploaded to the database and made available through the various data applications at www.nerrsdata.org/get/landing.cfm throughout early 2023.

Our only major weather event was tropical storm Tammy that brought us heavy rains in early October.
